DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: in the substitute abstract filed January 4, 2006 applicant should correct the two typographical errors, one in line 6 failing to delete "that" before -- the radially inner part -- and one in line 8 reciting " $\mu\text{m}$ " instead of -- mm -- .

Appropriate correction is required.

2. The amendment filed January 4, 2006 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132(a) because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132(a) states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: as noted above, the substitute abstract currently recites that the curved concave line radially outer part has a radius of curvature of not less than 300 " $\mu\text{m}$ " instead of the originally disclosed not less than 300 -- mm -- .

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Drawings

3. The drawings were received on January 4, 2006. These drawings are acceptable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1 the boundaries of the radially inner part and radially outer part of the axially outer side face of the bead portion are still not defined unless the rim is a standard rim or the tire is claimed in combination with the rim: applicant now defines the profile of the axially outer side face of the bead portion with respect to the rim width and rim flange profile, however if the rim is not present in the claim (such as by reciting in the preamble a pneumatic tire and wheel rim combination and in the body of the claim referring back to -- the -- wheel rim rather than “a” wheel rim) these rim features are defined only if the rim is a standard rim.

Also in claim 1 applicant now recites that the radially inner part is “accommodated to” the radially inner flat portion of the rim flange and the radially outer part is “accommodated to” the radially outer curved portion of the rim flange, however this vague language does not appear in the original disclosure and therefore one of ordinary skill in the art would not know what this encompasses other than intended use.

6. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

7. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. This is a new matter rejection: the “accommodated to” language added to claim 1 is not explicitly recited in the original disclosure, and due to its indefinite nature noted in paragraph 5 above it is not clear how the original disclosure would implicitly support this language.

One way to overcome this rejection would be to return to the original “for contacting” intended use language.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

9. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Waber (2,933,118).

Since the rim is not yet defined as noted in paragraph 5 above the claim still does not distinguish over the reference tire: the bead width of the reference tire can be adjusted so that the radially inner part is parallel with the tire equatorial plane and the radially outer part is either convex or substantially straight or concave with near infinite radius of curvature (substantially straight).

Conclusion

10. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
